A high profile UK criminal case turns into a shocking series of murders in an affluent corner of Surrey - the scene of a prestigious Hampshire mansion and Harrow boy's private school. Murder and mayhem. A mobile phone found at the scene shows the name of the suspect on a database. Police are linking him to a jewellery found in a shed, and with a computer seized by the force. But the police operation has a moral purpose, which is to do with the human rights of a young minority, and the history of the Jews in Surrey. Inspired by real events, the film depicts a small community in Surrey where a serial killer returns home. Edgy crime thriller starring Kunal Nayyar and Manoj Bajpayee. BBC Films has announced the UK theatrical release date for Bajwa's British-Indian story 'Manto'. The film had its world premiere at the 72nd edition of the London Film Festival in October 2018, and stars Manoj Bajpayee ('Captain America'), Kunal Nayyar ('24') and Deepak Dobriyal ('Metalhead'). From the filmmakers of acclaimed 'In the Name of the Father' and the BBC's 'Biggles' comes this tense and suspenseful thriller that explores themes of remembrance, survival and the impact of traumatic events. Fiction: In the struggling modern city of Edendale, an old man reads the murder reports of an unsolved serial killer. A cold case that remains unsolved is reopened by Detective Inspector Vicky Darling (Brendan Gleeson) who is paired with an arrogant young officer, Detective Constable June Reeves (Holly Hunter). They must find out if there's a connection between the Edendale serial killer and a suspected pornography ring in the area. What no one knows is that a B-Movie star is performing the local theatre re-runs, and everything about his two-bit shows brings the terrifying stories of the serial killer to life with the intimacy of a close-up on a home movie screen. With the taste of made-up sex scenes always stuck in their mouths, and itchy palms as they drive a colleague to his death, the detectives are brought to the edge of a nervous breakdown. But which of the two would be capable of murder, and whose will be the final falling act of a life
