References Category:Autodesk Category:Scientific software Category:Auto CADUS jobs: Two million are created, just slightly ahead of the previous month The US economy has added 2.074 million jobs in the first three months of 2015, the Department of Labour reported on Thursday. It was the best three months of job creation since 2005. The unemployment rate fell to 4.9%, the lowest in the country since October 2007. The labour department revised up the figure for November from 271,000 to 339,000. However, it added that 164,000 jobs were lost in December. He said that the job market was still more than 8% below its pre-recession peak. "The Federal Reserve should wait until we reach full employment, which is about 5% unemployment, before raising interest rates," he said.

A rebound in the job market has also been underpinned by falling mortgage rates and a sharp drop in the number of unemployed people. The average cost of borrowing for a home loan has fallen by 0.9% over the past month to 4.1%. That is the lowest level since May 2008. "Weakness in the housing market is a drag
