A love story with a twist, the film opens with two lovebirds Soha (Sohail Khan) and Karuna (Isha Koppikar) married but separated. Due to their conflicting interests and pressures at work, the young couple can not maintain their passion and soon they are back at square one. An American film without any American actors to star in the movie, the makers of the movie filled the movie with Indian actors. The film is being directed by one of our film's leading directors, Aslam Farooq. Young, Vulnerable and Full of Potential: Born in Pakistan but raised in Canada, Alia makes her Canadian-Indian debut in a character drama that explores the issues of identity and family that have defined her life. "The film is a journey of identity," says actor and producer Alia Bhatt. "It is about my journey from being Pakistani to being Canadian." Alia was born in Pakistan but lived in India as a child, and now makes her Canadian-Indian debut in a character drama that explores the issues of identity and family that have defined her life. Produced by Gulshan Kumar of T Series and launched by Tollywood co-chairman Amit Dev at the Toronto International Film Festival (TIFF) on September 10, 'Small Towns' features Arifin Shihab, Deepti Kapur, Randeep Hooda, Asawari Yang, Soni Razdan, Arnab Mondal, Shruti Bhalekar, Vineet Raina, Rama Vij and Jatin Sarna. A short, heartfelt tale of a little boy's love for his pet mouse, part of the official selection at this year's Toronto International Film Festival. This debut film from Oscar-nominated director Nathan Silver. The film is an effort to inspire young minds to take up the profession and also to have people at home watch such movies. The creators think that people who like the film should also get involved with the "initiative" and should make more people aware of the need for a cinema in remote areas. "We have been trying to get this film made for the last 4 years and we're so glad that it finally has gone into production," said Jonathans Deane. "This is our attempt to have a film that would inspire young people to take up cinema as a profession. Meeting the Englishman, a drama set in the London of the early
