I want to define a new function and wrap it with Monad to just return some value. I've come up with the following function. foo x = return x But when I try to run this function in ghci, it always throws an exception. :8:1: error: • Ambiguous type variable 'a0' arising from a use of 'return' prevents the constraint '(Monad m)' from being solved. Relevant bindings include result :: m a0 (bound at :8:1) Probable cause: 'return' is applied to too many arguments In a stmt of a 'do' expression: result
