Android Windows Phone References Category:Photo softwareQ: PHP strpos() with whitespace My website has a list of questions. Each question has a "random" display order. The displayorder uses rand(). I am trying to select a random question from the Squestions array. This is the code I have: $randQuestion = rand(0,(array_sum($questions)-1)); If I do echo $randQuestion; I get the correct result: 6 out of 10 But if I try to use strpos($questions[$randQuestion], $randQuestionString) == false to check if it contains the $randQuestionString; I only get a false result. What am I doing wrong? A: $randQuestion = rand(0,(array_sum($questions)-1)); $randQuestion = str_replace(' ', '', $randQuestion); First change the string to have all blank space, so you can use strpos() on it. Then after that, you can remove those blanks manually. Ex: '[ded]' => '[dcd]' A: what you are doing wrong is if you have a string with whitespace and you search for the same string in the same string you are returning false cause string1 and string2 are not the same. I think what you are trying to do is this: $randQuestion = rand(0,(array_sum($questions)-1)); $randQuestion = str_replace(' ', '', $randQuestion); $randQuestion = "".$randQuestion."" ; $randQ = substr($randQuestion, -1, 1); $pos = strpos($questions[$randQ], $randQ); if($pos == false){
