Search for text in pictures screenshots Search for text in pictures enables you to transfer text from photos that have no text. Require for: Windows 10 Screen Shots: Have you ever found yourself in desperate need to transfer some piece of text from a photo or image file? If you have, then you know how difficult it is to find an app that does exactly this and how expensive these programs can be. With this in mind, Search for text in pictures is an application that does this difficult task for free. It may not be as accurate or as precise as other alternatives, but it does the job quite right. How does this app work? The interface is pretty simplistic. One has to first load a folder with the images or pictures that will have the text extracted from them. Afterward, the application will detect all pictures with text and will prompt you with a selection of images found in the folder you indicated. Next, you have to open the right picture from the given selection and press on the button labeled "OCR". Voilà, your image text is extracted and displayed at the bottom of the app window. How reliable is this app? As far as responsiveness goes, the program works very fast. There is no lag and, more importantly, no errors or crashes. This means you will have a smooth experience with this application. The downside to it all is that the translation itself varies in quality. The smaller the sentences or texts, the better. For more complicated pieces of text, there are bound to be some problems, ranging from minor issues to somewhat important ones. Search for text in pictures is an application that attempts to offer paid features at no cost. This means the quality and execution are not perfect. Despite this, the application retains as much functionality as possible and can still be of use for many tasks involving the transition of words from photos or images to virtual paper. Search for text in pictures description: This is a Windows Phone App. The fastest way to download an application on your Windows 10 device is to search for it on the Store. Some versions of MacOS 10 and Android also. "Search for text in pictures" I am not sure if others have experienced this error, but it seems like the scanner is missing a capability to recognize the words. It's like the program is only able to recognize a few words or a letter or something and leaving everything else out. There are a few other issues, too, such as results not being displayed, text not being extracted, etc. I have already tried to upgrade to "2.3" using "Unbox.me" to no avail. There is no option for downloading the "unbox.exe" file. I am currently waiting on the "Unbox.me" developers to get back to me with a fix. Since I only have two options (upgrade the app or stop using it completely), I am considering going with the second option. Also, some screenshots of what I am seeing... If you use this application to OCR larger text or text in multiple files, the program is not capable of detecting and displaying the right text. This can cause a major headache if the app is incorrectly using the information
