The Multiverse Grief is a universal concept, and often a key to happiness as well. But what exactly is grief, and how can you access it when you need it? In her latest book, author, filmmaker and creative consultant Martha Teichner shares her insights on grief, including how to cultivate it, how to understand it better, and how to benefit from it. Wisdom of the Ages Autumn leaves turn brown and fall. We welcome them to the ground. But many of us fear the cold, and try to protect ourselves against it. Yet winter is a season of renewal. How can we harness the bounty of it in our own lives? In Autumn Leaves, the acclaimed poet and physician Dr. Lawrence LeShan demonstrates how. The Sweet Spot: The Radiators of the Soul Based on his original bestselling book, The Sweet Spot reveals that the human heart is a physical organ and that the heart actually has two radiators. The author traces the origins of this knowledge from the 19th century to the 21st century and explores the science of the heart. He describes its anatomy and physiology, and reveals its most important functions: love, friendship, generosity, compassion, service, and many more. The Hippopotamus: A History The human mind is at once one of the most powerful and fascinating products of evolution. Paul Ekman reveals in clear and engaging language how it has changed and what it can teach us. This book is packed with anecdotes and examples from history and from everyday life, and it discusses how these ideas impact our actions and our emotions. Resilience: The Science of Mastering Life's Greatest Challenges There are no simple solutions to the many challenges that we face in our everyday lives. The problem is too complex. But the good news is that there is plenty of evidence to suggest that we have a natural ability to do just that - to bounce back from adversity. It is the key to success, happiness, well-being, and even our survival. Publisher's Summary After the death of her father, Rosemarie Gooding decided to return to the Appalachian mountains, the place where her late mother had lived and where she had grown up. When she arrived there she could barely speak a word of the English
