Common Places to Buy Music. I know that we can use the following syntax to find all the p tags: $p = $doc->getElementsByTagName('p'); foreach ($p as $tag) { ... } But I'm trying to make it only return the p tags with a class="songs" and no attributes: $p = $doc->getElementsByTagName('p'); foreach ($p as $tag) { if($tag->hasAttribute('class') == false) { ... } } Is this possible? Thank you. A: Yes, this is possible. To find the tags having class songs: // get an array of all the tags with class=songs $class_songs_tags = $doc->getElementsByTagName('p'); // get an array of the tags that don't have the class attribute $class_no_attribute = $doc->getElementsByTagName('p'); Now you can use something like this: $class_no_attribute_tags = array_diff($class_no_attribute, $class_songs_tags); If you're not familiar with array_diff: it compares arrays element by element and removes the elements from the first array which don't exist in the second.

A: Ok, I figured it out: I had to tell the WPF control what to use as a template. This is how it looked when I did this: 3e33713323
