A 'special purpose vehicle' will be set up to build and rent out homes on sites around the borough. It will also run other business like selling homes and will even be able to borrow money and offer loans to developers to encourage more building. The council have been campaigning for the new company for more than a year with the mayor, councillor and members of cabinet. It will be set up by Labour councillors who backed the idea during their time in opposition. Now it is in the council and goes before the full council tomorrow (October 17). The aim is to bring houses into Haringey for people on low incomes. The new council has slashed the rents to 50% above the market rate to encourage more people to move to the area. Council leader Claire Kober said: “We already support new builds and good quality new builds. “But at the moment we are not supporting new affordable homes, which is why the new company will be so important.” This new company could be used by other councils to develop a similar plan. In the last three months, Haringey has worked with Camden, Greenwich and Islington to set up an affordable housing company. It is hoped that Leeds, Rochdale, Rotherham, Sheffield, Salford and the Wirral will be the next to start to set up companies, as the idea catches on. Tory councillor David Kidd, whose own proposal for an affordable housing company was passed two months ago, said: “This is going to be a fantastic model. “It is about making sure that affordable housing is there for people, and the idea is that, once the company has been running for a few years, then that company would go on to have other uses.” Councillor Kober said: “It is about creating a vehicle that brings affordable housing into Haringey. “One in five people in this borough lives in social housing. “We want to take us beyond the housing market.”

This review is based on the build as tested and available as of November 2014 and may be slightly outdated. The equipment has the camera unit that carries a VGA HD camera or DV tape loop recorder, which record movie images from a predetermined position. The camera unit can be moved within a predetermined distance along with the change of the recording position. We also have the angle bracket, to change the position of the camera lens, which is changeable and plumb free. The angle bracket can be adjusted from side to side, front to rear, or at an angle. For the camera of the fixed type, we can choose between a VGA HD camera or a DV tape loop recorder to make the movie images. We have also a 3D lens adapter, and an option for 3D live live multi-screen recording. There are two options for placing the 3D lens adapter, one is on top of the lens, and the other one is on the side of the lens. The 1.5mm multifunction optical gel membrane is used for refracting the light of the lens itself in order to eliminate color distortion to the best extent. It has the ability to adjust the focus of the lens, according to the shooting distance. As well as that, it has a switch to adjust the angle of the zoom lens in multi-shot mode. The angle bracket is only for a camera with a fixed lens, not for a camera with a lens that is motorized. B/W camera with a lens The B/W camera with a fixed lens means the camera cannot adjust the focus according to the shooting distance. When a solid color still image is recorded in the movie image, a white image with no matter is focused on the white parts in the object. What is the Matter with Thomas Sankara?
