The bike was fine, no problems, a great feeling, great after the winter and before the training. It's a mystery, hard to say what is going on, even to me. I just want to keep riding. Training is all good, but the holidays are over, I will do some time trial sessions this coming weekend, but I will train right up until the worlds in Qatar on the 22nd of February where I will start to plan for the long ride. Here are the results of the enduros, a race for city riders. I was 5th in the national ranking but only 21st in the category. I have no energy for a race now. I am going to be doing a short session and going for a long ride to see if it has tired me out. The short term race, everyone was very strong, had 2 breaks of about 10 min, and the fastest rider in the break was almost 10 kph faster than me. I knew 09e8f5149f
