The built-in AIM client has been developed as an independent component which can be used with other AIM components. It is available in all AIM Versions starting with AIM 7.0. The purpose of this component is to integrate the AIM Client with other software components. The client currently supports the following protocols: AIM 0.4.5 is extremely important to fix all the reported AIM bugs. It is also helpful to transfer Movable Type Data to Blogengine using an Movable Type export and import, Blogger export and import, TypePad export and import, or WordPress export and import There is a reason for a big release with so many AIM bug fixes. AIM 0.4.5 is a critical update for all AIM clients as it will make the client able to interoperate with other AIM clients which use the same protocol (ie AIM 1.4.0 and later). AIM 0.4.5 has the following improvements: fixed a bug that would cause some mail messages to be sent or received continuously AIM 0.4.5 is extremely important to fix all the reported AIM bugs.
