What I've Done In the "picture frame" area, I've created a JFrame, which contains two JPanel. One panel is for displaying a directory tree, while the other panel is for displaying a single directory. Both JPanel are based on a parent JPanel, which is the Frame's content pane. The directory tree panel is based on the DirectoryTreePanel example of the ImageIcon project. This panel has been attached to the parent JPanel. The single directory panel is based on the LabelPanel example from the ImageIcon project. This panel has been attached to the parent JPanel. Where I'm Currently Stuck Currently, the directory tree panel is working, and I can browse the directories in the current directory. The single directory panel is not working. What I'm Looking For I would like to incorporate the single directory panel code into the directory tree panel so that both panels work simultaneously. I think I can get this to work using a CardLayout. A: It seems that you've only changed the code of the single-directory JPanel, and the File Icons ImageIcon and DirectoryTreePanel components are completely untouched. So the file icon is still being used to show the files and the directory tree is still being used to show the directory structure. How do you expect the Single-Directory panel to be used? I would like to incorporate the single directory panel code into the directory tree panel so that both panels work simultaneously. This won't work. You cannot add a panel to another panel. You can add a panel to a container, and then you can add components to the panel. For example, when you add a directory tree to a directory tree, you get an

Temperature Teller With Key [Mac/Win]

i would like to see in the future that you would have a feature that would ask you what time you want to wake up, but it would be system wide, not just for your computer. for example, if i set my computer to wake up at 7:05 a.m. and my alarm clock set to 7:00, it would wake me up automatically at 7:05 a.m. I would like to have an option for me to automatically have my computer turn on at 7:15 a.m. (instead of 7:30 as it is now) but also have my alarm clock turn on the next day at 7:00 a.m. (instead of 8:00 a.m. as it is now) So I can have my computer automatically turn on, my alarm clock go off for the day, and my computer turn on for the next day. For now, I do not use it at all. But the more I use it, the more I like it, and I will be the first to give it 5 stars. I want to say THANK YOU for this program. In addition, you could add something like "wake me up at 7:05 a.m." and your alarm clock should be automatically turned on for that time. However, if your computer is turned off when your alarm clock goes off, and you want to change your alarm clock for the next day, I think it's better to have an option for "go to sleep" than "set the time for the next day". how about by morning it could read what time you wanted to wake up, and if you changed the time it should wake you up at that time. What time you wanted to wake up is a personal thing, so you might want it to be changed daily For now I just have it set to wake me up at 7:00AM and that is all I want it to do. I want it to update each morning at 7:00AM and if I want it to wake me up earlier it could update the alarm clock for me too. I think that would be a nice to have. I would like the program to automatically wake me at 7:30a.m. each morning. I do not have an alarm clock, and don't want to have to remember or set the time every day. I also would like my computer to turn on at 7:30a.m. each morning. I could set the time
