Hello, dear guest, have you ever thought about the web? It is definitely the ideal place to study data and get new ideas. So, if you are interested in "How to add an image gallery to a web page using java script", this article will be of interest to you. Image galleries are becoming more and more common on the internet. This is because they are very interesting to look at. It is also a perfect solution for web sites, for example, if they want to promote their site by showing a gallery of photos, especially when they are located in a large data base and it is going to be costly to manage and display them. This is why it is important to find a good solution that will enable you to produce image galleries without any problems. Image galleries have a few characteristics that differentiate them from other types of photos. For example, they are often characterized by the number of items contained in them. Typically, they are categorized in groups of ten or twenty items. This program enables you to easily add an image gallery to your site. This can be done without having to do any coding or programming. The process is very simple: the first thing that you have to do is to open an image gallery. This is done with a small panel that appears when you click on the button that is located in the toolbar. The image gallery is then added automatically to your page. You can decide whether you want to add the gallery at the end, between two other web elements, or at the top of the page. You can also choose the position of the photos that are contained in the gallery. The position can be left, right, top or bottom. Now that the gallery has been added to your page, you
