I mean something like this: np.sort(X, axis = 0) #I got 23101 elements x 24 len That will sort the first axis. Now, suppose I want to sort the second axis, by using np.sort(X, axis = 1) Since I have 23101 elements in the first axis, I expected it to sort the second axis. But it gives me an error: ValueError: X has 6205 dimensions: 504, 23101 So, how can I sort a 2d array with 30 elements in the first axis and 23101 in the second? Thanks! A: Use np.argsort instead: import numpy as np a = np.arange(23101).reshape(-1,24) np.argsort(a,axis=0) # array([6205, 6204, 6203, 6202, 6201, 6200, 6199, 6198, 6197, 6196, 6195, 6194, 6193, 6192, 6191, 6190, 6189, 6188, 6187, 6186, 6185, 6184, 6 6a5af4ab4c
