If you want to have a strong, unique password for every website, this is one program to consider using. After all, nothing is better than having a good password for an account. Once you have your list of passwords, the program will help you create codes of various lengths. This means that you can select the length of the password you would like to create. If you are going to use this one to create an unique password for your bank account, for example, then you may want to select the longer codes. Having codes of various lengths allows you to create one that would be strong for all the websites you use. The lower the number the stronger it will be, and the longer the code, the less vulnerable you will be.
