Firefox 6 is finally out, and as such, I'd like to share my full review of the new browser, along with some links to reviews and videos of the new browser. The review below is long, but I hope it's useful to you. Firefox 6 Review What's New in Firefox 6 New Interface: -- The interface is radically different from previous versions of Firefox, and I'm still finding my way around it. But the new interface is much faster and easier to navigate than previous versions, and it has some features that make it more familiar and intuitive for users. Firefox 6 looks like the version of Firefox I've been using for years -- and it feels and acts that way, too. -- A totally redesigned Firefox with more tabs, improved stability and performance. -- The menu is smaller and moves to the top of the window. -- A new, smaller toolbar with fewer items. -- The browser has a history bar at the top, with bookmarks at the bottom. -- Quick tabs make it easy to switch between browsing contexts. -- More tabs come in different sizes. Bookmark Search: -- Add and manage your Bookmarks from the new Manage Bookmarks page. -- Find everything from one box in the Bookmark Manager. -- Find links on the page you're viewing. -- Search for a single link or a whole web page. -- Manage your tabs from the new Manage Tabs page. -- Add new tabs, organize them and delete those that are no longer useful. -- Sort and un-sort your tabs. -- Search for new tabs and manage all of them from one place. -- Add a tab as a new or existing bookmark. Browser Search: -- New tabs opened from your browser remember the last page you visited. -- New tabs give you quick access to your most visited websites. -- Firefox now remembers your preferred home page. -- Search for the name of a website that you're looking for. -- Firefox remembers the search engine you use most often. -- You can search for the name of a website or an image to see if it exists. -- Using your favorite search engine, make sure the link you find is safe. -- If you don't know what to do with a link, Open in a New Tab from the link. -- Firefox will now tell you whether a link is safe, unsafe or in-between, before you decide to click it. Better Home Page, More Information and Better Performance -- When you start Firefox, it now remembers your previous home page and opens it by default. -- When you exit Firefox, it now goes
