This is a Productis Project Provides Bulk Verification and Bulk Signing Functions for XPS documents. It is a standalone application that does not require any other software installation, except you have to install a XPS Viewer like XPS Creator 3.5. In order to make this possible, XPS Signer is not a digital signer; it simply creates and saves a signed XPS document on your hard drive. All the certificates involved, including the public and private keys, are stored on your hard disk and are not required to be on any other system or network. Once the document is generated, it is automatically saved on the hard drive and you can view the document by running the XPS Viewer. Since you can also make changes to the document, that will be saved.

xpssigner product has been tested with Win XP, Vista, 7, 8. 1) It offers several benefits, as the following:-

- * It is designed to be a portable, standalone solution that does not require any other software.
- * It can read and write XPS documents (.xps) from any directory (including user and system)
- * It can work with several XPS file formats.
- * It is FREE, Open Source and configurable.
- * Its signature engine can be used with any certificate provider, including third party products.
- * Its signature engine can be used with multiple digital signing methods (PKI, PEF, DER)

2) How it works: A new XPS document is generated with the default settings (digest algorithm, content of the document and so on). If the user wants to make changes, then he can do so by editing the content of the document. Once the document is complete, the user can save the document or use an XPS Viewer to load and view it. The document is automatically signed with the certificate chosen by the user. After the document is signed, the XPS Signer closes the document and stores a copy on the user's local hard drive. In the background, the document is converted to PDF and the keystores are re-generated from the saved signing certificate (with the new digest algorithm). This product has been tested with all the certificates provided by the Microsoft Windows Certificate Service (CA) and the Customer Certificate Service (CSC). How to install the xps signer application on windows: 1. Unzip the file and save it on desktop. 2. Open the MSI installer with your favourite tool
