Free Download That doesn't seem to be my problem with Unix today, at least on one Unix that I have. My problem is that I am now in a position to have at least two more people sending new patches to me, and I know I can get two more folks sending me new patches by jumping over my current primary maintainer's head. I suppose my problem with Unix today would be that I have come to realize that I don't want a patch which sends me more work. I also don't want something which sends me work (where "work" means developer time and engineering effort) if the change is not basically the best thing that I would ever do. Also, I think it's fair to say that I just like to be left alone on important issues (as in important to me) because it hurts to have to be bitten on what I believe to be an important issue as a user as opposed to working on
