These regulations are important, but they're just one piece of the puzzle. Many companies still struggle to fully protect themselves from fraud and bad actors. Briggs software stands apart with its ability to perform true compliance on transactions and account holder data, which allows users to see the entire account before and after a transaction to understand fraud risk in real-time. By doing this, merchants and service providers can control fraud and their risk profile while increasing sales and compliance rates. Briggs software gives companies the ability to meet strict regulatory compliance by Know the current account and payment risk score Accepting just the right amount of fraud is key to maintaining financial health Analyze all actions on the account including transactions, payments, account history, and activity across multiple channels in real-time Gain visibility into account holder fraud risk based on risk categories Unified billing and analysis makes data collection, reporting, and analysis faster and easier than ever before Data privacy laws like PCI DSS and HIPAA have also resulted in increased focus on anti-fraud solutions.
