A: If you assume that the age of the object is measured in millenia, you can consider the rate of change of the mass of an object as a representation of its age. You can solve this using the following formula: \$\$ m = \$\$ mass of an object as a representation of its age. You can solve this using the following formula: $m_0(1+\frac{dM}{dm_0})^{-1}$ \$\$ where: \$m\$ is the mass of your object \$m_0\$ is the mass of your object per unit of time \$dM\$ is the mass of your object per unit of time \$dM\$ is the mass of your object per unit of time \$dM\$ is the mass of the object on the day it was born \$dm_0\$ is the mass of the object on the day it was born \$dm_0\$ is the mass of the object on the day it was born \$dm_0\$ is the mass of the object on the day it was born \$dm_0\$ is the mass of the object on the day it was born \$dm_0\$ is the mass of the object on the day it was born \$dm_0\$ is the mass of your object per unit of time \$dM\$ is the mass of your object per unit of time \$dM\$ is the mass of your object per unit of time \$dM\$ is the mass of the object on the day it was born \$dm_0\$ is the mass of your object per unit of time \$dM\$ is the mass o bar and \$dm\$ is the mass gain of the bar per unit of time.
