Q: How to use relative path in Azure Powershell connection string? In Azure Powershell, how to create connection string to application resource that is running in containers? I tried using connection string below, but it gives me error when connect to database. `$connectionStrings = "Data Source=tcp:[my-storage-account-name].database.windows.net,1433;Initial Catalog=MyDatabase;User ID=MyUser;Password=MyPassword;"` I would expect if i use below it will create connection string with required container name. `$connectionStrings = "Data Source=tcp:[my-storage-account-name].database.windows.net,1433;Initial Catalog=MyDatabase;User ID=MyUser;Password=MyPassword;"` This should be something like below. `$connectionStrings = "Data Source=tcp:my_storage_account.database.windows.net,1433;Initial Catalog=MyDatabase;User ID=MyUser;Password=MyPassword;"` However it is not taking relative path i.e. `"Data Source=tcp:my_storage_account.database.windows.net,1433;"` A: You don't need to specify "Data Source". The data source is the name of the connection string (assuming it is a SQL Server instance). You have: `$connectionStrings = "Data Source=tcp:[my-storage-account-name].database.windows.net,1433;Initial Catalog=MyDatabase;User ID=MyUser;Password=MyPassword;"` Try: `$connectionStrings = "Data Source=tcp:my_storage_account.database.windows.net,1433;Initial Catalog=MyDatabase;User ID=MyUser;Password=MyPassword;"` Q: How can I allow IP address validation on specific routes? I'm trying to create a route where the IP address needs to be validated. Here is the code I have so far: `$route['other.example.com'] = 'some controller'; $route['another.example.com'] = 'some other controller';` Currently it will allow all ip addresses to go to either controller. I'm not sure how to restrict this to one controller. A: You can use `array_map()` to
