So this is easy with this: for line in lines: line = re.sub(r'\s|',r'-', line) But I also want to replace the vertical bar if it occurs in the middle of a word. For example, I want to replace the vertical bar in "Bar John" with a hyphen, but not in the strings: "Bar John" "Bar-John" "BarJohn" "Bar-John" Is there some sort of conditional here that I can employ? I would rather not have to store all the possible permutations of vertical bar and word. A: You can use a lookahead assertion: >>> line = "Bar John" >>> m = re.search(r'(?>> m.group(0) 'Bar John' >>> m.group(648931e174

How can I change that? A: With your example you need `plt.plot(np.array([3.4]), 'o-')` This uses the 'o-' formatting for a list (dict) of one element which can use a custom format specifier. Alternatively, you can specify the formatting explicitly:
`plt.plot(np.array([3.4]), '.', fmt='o-`
