QtNote has the ability to let you fill out quick notes, memos or other short documents, which are created and edited with just the right tool. When first launched, the tool is loaded into the system tray area, so it will not take up any space and will not require additional work. Use the note tool to record your ideas, write up important notes, memos or anything else that you have to do. The notes are organized by topic, and you can organize them into folders, which are created when you want to group your notes. When you no longer need the notes any more, you can even delete them. It will highlight spelling errors, so you can easily correct them and save your time. Features: Works on Windows. Automatically saves the notes when exited. Saves the notes to the memory. An option to install from the Windows Add or Remove Programs. Automatically synchronizes the notes to a server. An option to send the notes as an attachment to an e-mail. Supports multiple windows. The clients' agent (who worked with them on buying the house) asked me how I was feeling. I replied I felt great... I've got plenty of time to get everything ready. The agent smiled and replied, "when you are moving into your new house, you don't have time." Sure, you don't, but it was nice for the agent to say so. The people we are using to help us move don't like to hear we don't have time. They see this as a

Although the application is designed for easy-to-use, it does offer a more advanced editing and tracking capabilities, however its real strength lies in its ability to quickly record short texts. Whether one is using the built-in note manager or a custom one, the program will allow one to quickly select a document and select a start point, a middle point and an end point (in no particular order). The main job of the program is to automatically highlight spelling, grammatical errors and anything that may be worth a comment. The program works wonderfully for any length of a short memo, including titles. One simply has to write the text in the function area of the editor, and the tool will format and highlight it accordingly. Typing will have no impact on the items other than that of a cursor being placed after each written phrase. Creating a note involves filling out a form that automatically saves the notes as text files, or one can also export the items to PDF or HTML files. The user can also manually save the items to a file. The format of each item is of up to 10 KB in size, so each note is manageable. An excellent choice for anyone in need of a simple utility for recording short notes. Dive into the Privacy Policy. - Pricing and system requirements Free to use as a trial
