Read our review of Elements 2018 here. Elements 2018 Review Elements 2018 added a few welcome new features and updates to the more popular versions of the program. The most important new feature is the file browser. With the file browser it's much easier than before to open the files that you've got in the program. Before, you had to open it from the Tools menu. Or, you had to go into the Develop and then Open dialog. But with the file browser, it's simple to navigate to the folders and files you have in Elements. And, it's almost quicker to open than it was in old versions. There's more on file browser in the Elements 2018 review. Now, it's a lot easier to get to your images in the develop tools and spot which ones you want to edit or use. Speaking of which, you can more easily spot the things that you'd like to do to your images. There's a lot more to edit than spotting the tools. For example, there are now a few more text options. If you want to add a different font to your image, you can now do that with it. However, you need to select a different font. You can also alter your colors, shadows, brightness/contrast, and sharpness. However, you can't alter individual colors in the image that are blended with other colors. You still have to select all the areas and change the colors you want. There are also a few features that will make your images more realistic. There's noise reduction, more natural crops, and there are a few more special effects to choose from. There's a new feature called Organizer that helps organize your images into a catalog. While this isn't very essential for amateur photographers, it's quite useful for people who have hundreds or thousands of images. The new Organizer helps you search your library of images much faster and much better. All your images are listed in the file browser and you can quickly find the ones you need. And, if you want to edit multiple images, for example, if you're looking for a different crop of that photo in the catalog or to adjust a bunch of images at the same time, the Organizer is a lot

Advertising Read more Managua (AFP) Nicaraguan police shot dead a woman believed to have been carrying a bomb near the country's main opposition office on Friday, authorities said. "An explosive device was located inside a bag on the belt of the deceased, which was being carried by the accused," Nicaraguan police said in a statement. It said the incident was being treated as attempted murder and that security forces had opened fire, but did not say whether it was the woman or the weapon that was targeted. Nicaraguan National Police chief, Ramon Zazueta, said the incident had taken place at a bank in Managua, the capital. A bank is located close to the office of the Union of Civic and Progressive Democrats (UDI), the country's oldest and most respected opposition party. The office is the site of regular protests over the past year. Two months of tension and deadly clashes between the security forces and protesters have left at least 325 dead and 2,800 wounded. The conflict has morphed into a larger battle over who should lead the country, with police and soldiers backing President Daniel Ortega, and protesters accusing him of maintaining an iron grip on power. Ortega and his Sandinista National Liberation Front (FSLN) party have long controlled Nicaragua, and have enjoyed a tight relationship with Cuba's former leader Fidel Castro. The country now has more than 20,000 troops in the streets, with some snipers positioned in buildings. Officials blame the demonstrators for many of the deaths, saying the protesters have shot at police and even carried out attacks on the homes of prominent politicians and army officers. But police and protesters alike have said demonstrators were shot at as they threw Molotov cocktails and rocks at the security forces. © 2018 AFPQ: How to get data from two tables with relationship I have two tables: | Table 1 |

Q: Can I remove a user from one Active Directory group and add him to another? I am planning to remove an employee from his current AD group by using the command memberof -user However I want to add him to a new group. Is it possible? A: Assuming your new group is in the same domain as the old group (and you just want to add the user to a new group) the code would be as follows: $pwd = (Get-WmiObject Win32_UserProfile -Filter "Name=*" | Select -expandproperty UserName) $groupToAdd = "NewGroup" $newGroup = Get-ADGroup $groupToAdd $rule = New-Object System.Security.AccessControl.FileSystemAccessRule($pwd, "Read") $rule.SetGroup = $newGroup $rule.Type = System.Security.AccessControl.FileSystemAccessRuleType.Allow $ruleArray = $rule | Select-Object -ExpandProperty AccessControlList $acl = Get-Acl (Join-Path $pwd "Public") Set-Acl $acl -AccessRuleCollection $ruleArray There are more examples around on how to remove a user from a group, all you need to do is just change the line "Add the user to the group" into "Remove the user from the group" for example: Remove-ADGroupMember -Identity "CN=AGroup,OU=Groups,DC=MYDOMAIN,DC=com" -Members Ref: Q: why am i getting so many errors after i installed lotus notifier?
