Mr. Poppers PenguinsÅ .Q: Filtering User Control via TextBox Value? I am trying to filter a User Control so that it shows all items where the Status is 1 or 2 or 3. And that it does so with a lookup to the Status field. I have implemented a TextBox on the User Control that I am trying to filter based on the lookup field. I have it wired to a method that has the status set as x = Nothing and y = Nothing. I have also tried setting the textbox that contains the lookup field as x = 1 and y = 2. The error I'm getting says "Invalid cast from String to Nullable". How can I fix this? These are the lines of code that I have added. `protected void refreshGrid_Click(object sender, EventArgs e) { (Customer)[0].Status = x; (Customer)[0].Status = y; refreshgrid(); }` The above will attempt to set the "Status" field as x and y which I am trying to make (Customer)[0].Status = x; and The below will attempt to set the value of the TextBox on the User Control to x and y and refreshgrid(); `protected void textBox1_TextChanged(object sender, EventArgs e) { Customer = (Customer)[0]; if (x == "1" && y == "1")`
