FIFA Ultimate Team FUT will feature new features such as Skill Shots, Player Drafts and be the first game in the FIFA franchise to allow players to earn and use a currency earned through gameplay called FIFA Points. FUT will also feature a brand new Acquisition system which allows players to sign and collect more than 1,000 different current and historic players from more than 100 national teams. As with the previous FIFA, players will be able to create custom kits and players for their FUT squads by purchasing a number of small kits in addition to larger kits made up of multiple parts. Players can earn customization points by buying a kit on their own and using these points to buy and wear custom made parts in the FIFA Ultimate Team editor. Every match, players will be able to earn up to 10,000 customization points by wearing kits in the Champions League. Additional information about FIFA Ultimate Team can be found on the FIFA website. FIFA 22 will be available for PlayStation 4, Xbox One and PC when it launches on September 29, 2015. We'll have a lot more information about the game later this week.

Q: How to populate class array without consuming unwanted memory? What is the best way to keep a reference to a class instance so as to reuse data members without filling up memory? For example, suppose we have a class named Foo with four members m_x, m_y, m_z, and m_w. We want to store Foo objects, Foos, in an array of pointers: Foo* Foos[NUM_FOO_OBJECTS]; Foo* pFoo = Foos[i]; However, the size of this data structure is not known ahead of time, and the total number of Foos that we need to store is also not known until runtime. What would be the best way to store this data structure? A: You store the object itself, and just keep a pointer to the object: std::vector foos; foos.reserve(NUM_FOO_OBJECTS); foos.push_back(new Foo(1, 2, 3, 4)); foos.push_back(new Foo(5, 6, 7, 8)); ... If you need to keep the objects around, but don't need the pointers anymore: std::vector foos

Put your manager skills to the test on new game modes, contests, and new modes in FIFA Ultimate Team including Draft Pick Scramble, Restricted Roster and Pay To Win. FUT Draft Pick Scramble – This new event makes it clear that you are never too old, or too tired to be a part of one of the biggest events in sport, as FIFA will once again be bringing the most epic of Draft Pick Scramble matches back to the FIFA stage. Using the voice of The FIFA 25 Official Theme Song, ‘Dream’, you can now dominate the Draft Pick Scramble contest as you vie to amass the greatest collection of dream players across all 32 teams. Everyone will have their favourite Draft Pick Scramble format, but regardless of which you play, the opportunity to cast your vote for the fantasy you think would do the best job at fielding their dream team is now open to all. Whether it’s the ‘millionaires clubs’ or ‘player share’ style Draft Pick Scramble, the FIFA community will have an opportunity to try and be the richest, the best, the strongest, the strongest in the most exciting and epic of Draft Pick Scramble events in FIFA. FIFA Restricted Roster – Heading into FIFA Ultimate Team 20, every dream team and every signature share has a limit to their total number of active players in a particular game. In Ultimate Team mode, with FIFA 20 there will be a new contest, FIFA Restricted Roster, where players with limited shares or in need of extra points will put their hands up in bid for an increased total of points. The total number of shares available to the clubs at the start of Ultimate Team mode remains the same as previous titles, and each club can only be represented by a maximum of 14 players. To encourage the more successful players to rise above, the FIFA Restricted Roster event will now give players who raise their share number to a new maximum of 15 in Ultimate Team mode a bonus point to add to their total of points. New players who wish to purchase shares and those who wish to raise their share numbers can simply head into the ‘My Club’ section in Ultimate Team mode and complete the required steps to get their share number increased. FIFA Premier League Manager – From the all new manager role in FIFA Ultimate Team, to being able to provide a new training regime, manager mode is packed full with all the tools to help make

What's new:

- Improved AI and Skill Engine. With 65 years of micro processor technology, we've made significant progress in replicating how the players act in real life. In addition to dynamic dodging and reactive movement, we've optimized player animations using particle and ragdoll technologies to make your team feel more authentic. Players will react more dynamically to challenges, making tackles stick like they do in real life, and providing more realistic through balls. AI is now better at challenging runs, positioning, and decision-making.
- New goalkeepers. Predecessor Morpheus introduced new keepers from 11 of the world's top leagues. In FIFA 22, we're expanding on this concept with the introduction of four new keepers from different styles and cultures. FIFA 22 introduce Keeper of the Snake Soccer - which focuses on quick movement and lateral movements, Keeper of the Eye - high-pressure on-field awareness, Keeper of the Ball - comfortable with the ball at his feet, and Keeper of the Fist - prepared to take a shot with no time to waste. Keepers are now different from defenders, combining the best of both. Players will be able to customize their keeper's positioning and movement as the keeper shape the match through his line of sight.
- Super Agents. Players can now recognize the unique playing style of real-life agents who represent them using the new Super Agent coaching tool. FIFA 22 introduces "Super Coaches" which provides information as your goalkeeper dives to save the final shot on goal. Prowess tokens are also earned when your teams score goals. These attention-grabbing abilities will give you an edge in the ultimate money-making endeavour. 5 of the industry's top football agents - James Rodríguez, Alexis Sánchez, Neymar, Roberto Firmino and Lionel Messi - are available as Super Agents for the first time in FIFA history.
- First season in the Champions League and Champions Cup. Live out the story of your club in the Champions League and Champions Cup with new ways of advancing in the tournament.
- Champions League and Champions Cup enhancements.
- Alternative tactics.
- More immersive gameplay modes. You can now play in a complete, high-intensity match in FIFA 22.
- Physically-based A.I. makes your players vary from match to match

FIFA 21 builds on the franchise's heritage, with a deeper simulation and storytelling through key gameplay innovations such as contextual decision-making, greater freedom of approach, player personality, play style, and a reworked transfer system. The gameplay improvements make for a deeper and more authentic experience, and a new international league based on real-world leagues, and a new World Cup mode, which lets you run your own tournament or join one from real federations. Buy FIFA 21 The footballing sensation has arrived, and this year's title has something for everyone, whether you are a striker, goalkeeper or defender, or want to relive the glory of the World Cup with a recreated World Cup. With the first all-new season of innovation in over a decade, FIFA 21 allows you to take the lead for the first time and show off your skills online, or take the game to new heights with big gameplay changes across the entire experience. Move for the shot Realistic animation and the ability to sprint to and through opponents make dribbling a breeze, allowing you to float through the defence, leaving your opponent in your wake. Sprinting is even more fluid, allowing you to use the environment to your advantage - jump over defenders or weave in and out of tackles, as well as a new move where you can slow time down to add a last-ditch tackle. The smarter goalkeeper Control and challenge opponents at the crucial moment - make a save in the dying moments of the match or use long balls to try and break your opponents down. With over 350 new saves and new reaction behaviours, the goalkeeper is more reactive than ever, making sure you get the crucial save when it matters. And new goalkeepers can jump higher than ever, allowing them to protect the post from headers. Easier to score Improve your finishing and
