Age-related changes in insulin-like growth factor I (IGF-I) binding to cultured human gastric mucosal cells. The effect of age on the in vitro binding of 125I-labelled human recombinant insulin-like growth factor I (rhIGF-I) to cultured human gastric epithelial cells was investigated. Gastric mucosal cells from subjects in the third and ninth decade of life had higher affinity (Kd congruent to 10 nM) and numbers of binding sites (Bmax congruent to 100,000 sites/cell) for 125I-labelled rhIGF-I than did cells from subjects in the first and sixth decade. The affinity constant, Bmax and number of binding sites was not significantly affected by the presence of 10 nM insulin-like growth factor II (IGF-II). Kd and Bmax values were very similar for cells from first-sixth decade subjects. The changes in the IGF-I binding characteristics were paralleled by a 40% increase in the basal level of IGF-I mRNA, suggesting that a change in the level of IGF-I gene expression may be responsible for the observed effect. These data confirm the presence of a functional IGF-I receptor in human gastric mucosal cells. The age-related increase in IGF-I binding appears to be due to an age-related change in the IGF-I gene which may be mediated through the insulin receptor. The similarity in binding properties of IGF-I and IGF-II is consistent with the ability of IGF-II to stimulate the function of these cells.Q: Google iOS apps: Google Chrome and Google Maps With the iOS apps from Google (Google+) in particular, when you click on a user's name, a popup box appears over their profile picture. This is a Google Chrome view (and my browser is on a different profile on the same iPad) and it's perfectly aligned with the profile picture. But, when I click on the map, the popup boxes are higher than usual. Or, worse, they're not there at all. The is the html for the map:
