What's New in the Animated Captures Maker?

Animated Captures Maker is a lightweight utility designed to help you capture your screen in numerous ways, including region, full screen, active window and object. Quick setup and intuitive interface The installation is a quick and forthright process that does not require any special attention and should not take too much of your time. Upon launch, you are welcomed by a small and rugged window, but that is unlikely to give you any troubles. To put it simply, you need to specify what you need to record along with the desired capture frame rate per seconds. It is worth mentioning that the program is automatically minimized to System Tray once the recording begins. Not only is this non-distractingly, but it ensures that you only include the desired elements when recording in fullscreen or object mode at the same time. It is browser-friendly and should work with most web navigating apps The idea behind the utility is to help you create desktop records that are going to be stored in a GIF format, a suitable choice if you are planning to create a training animation, for instance. Moreover, the tool can be useful if you want to create videos to advertise your software or tutorials that teach users how to configure programs if you are working on customer support, for example. It goes without saying that GIF formats work with the vast majority of web browsers and hence, users can open them directly or via plugins. Further noteworthy advantages of GIFs is that they store the selective palette information in the binary data and use a lossless type of compression.
