When we first moved in here, we put our stash of wood to good use building this beautiful multi-use bench. We were totally inspired by one of our favorite paint companies, JWS, and the porcelain tiles made by LunaTiles. But the times they are a changin'. My husband and I have been enjoying the cooler evenings. Being in the mountains is really special at this time of year. Our garden is fading but the trees are becoming more and more beautiful. While we had a great time a few years ago, we've found it's not on our list anymore. For those of you who enjoy snipping leaves in the fall, this post may be of interest. I was reminded of this. A couple of years ago I got a wonderful winter swatch from the Pacific Northwest States Cooperative. I love the variety of colors in that pumpkin. With Fall on the way and Halloween right around the corner, I had to pull out some Halloween baking. This cake by Martha Steward from her book, Party Around the World, is a new favorite. The kids will love it. I don't know how Martha can do it. She's baking up a storm all day long and then editing her wonderful magazine. I'm always inspired by her work, but the amount of time she must put into it makes me envious. Friday, September 30, 2011 I like to entertain so I like to do all sorts of interesting projects. These 3 runner swatches are just a few of my recent favorites. They're all from the Majestic factory in China. I have a daughter 595f342e71
