As I've discussed on previous occasions, the Obama administration is politically and criminally illegitimate. But will the plot be successful? We now have news that the administration intends to file suit over the four year-old Federal Communications Commission indecency sanctions against Fox News, which are related to the network's coverage of the Obama administration, even though the so-called fairness doctrine no longer exists. I expect the Obama Justice Department will sue Fox, just as it has tried to do before.
