Infaq consists of a strong basis for one of the principle aims of Islam which is to inspire the believer to give enough charity. The believer is required to spend whatever they don't use to feed themselves, to feed the poor, to clothe the poor, to shelter the poor, to visit the sick, to visit the relatives, to help the relatives, to invite the relatives, and to keep the relatives informed of their condition. Al-Bukhari, it is a turning point in a man's life when he turns his heart inwards, when he asks himself what is in his heart in order to make his heart more open to Allah. An open heart leads to sincerity and sincerity leads to sincerity. However, if a person is a sincere infaq listener, then he should receive an open heart. The Quran explains this through these words: "It is not from anyone of you that any good comes except by the grace of God and His gift is best for the faithful." (5:45).
